Exciting news from the Boston showroom scene: Fossiël, which offers home decor, furnishings, and even landscaping items crafted from twenty-million- to 280-million-year-old petrified wood, opened in May. The showroom is located at 1 Columbus Avenue in the Boston Park Plaza. We can't wait to see this rare material incorporated into upcoming design projects.

Another successful Boston Design Week wrapped up with an annual awards ceremony. This year's virtual event honored Miguel Gómez-Ibáñez, master furniture maker and president emeritus of North Bennet Street School, with the 2021 Lifetime Achievement Award. Photographer Michael J. Lee, a frequent New England Home contributor, received the Mentor of the Year Award. Well done, gentlemen.

Spring is always a busy time at the Boston Design Center, and this year was no exception. Ferrell Mittman settled into its new showroom on the third floor adjacent to Pierre Frey. Holly Hunt expanded its offerings to include Armani/Casa wallcoverings along with furniture and art from Toronto-based Moss & Lam. Scavolini launched Formalia kitchens in partnership with Italian designer Vittore Niuolu, adding another luxurious contemporary cabinetry option to its portfolio.

Clarke, known for its state-of-the-art showrooms and world-class staff chefs, just celebrated thirty years of bringing the best of luxury appliances to New England. Tom Clarke founded the company, and the customer service tradition he established continues with his son Sean, who is now president of the company. Cheers to another thirty years.

Fouad Mahfuz, owner of PRG Rugs in Nashua, New Hampshire, was inducted into the Boys & Girls Club of Greater Nashua Hall of Fame. Mahfuz sat on the club's board of directors for more than twelve years, served as the organization's chief volunteer officer, and has employed club members at PRG Rugs. Congrats, Fouad, and thank you for serving your community.

Congratulations are also due to Albert, Righter & Tittmann Architects, winners of a 2021 Palladio Award for its Pond Farm project. The charming lakeside compound adopts a rural vernacular style. Traditional Building magazine presented the award.

Annie Selke and textile artist Victoria van der Laan have collaborated on a new collection that is bold, mod, and colorful. The line includes bedding, decorative pillows, and art that honors the craft of quilting and the women who pioneered it.

Artaic is on the move, opening a new Boston showroom in Charlestown's Biscuit Building on the iconic Schrafft's City Center Campus. The new space will host the Artaic design studio, manufacturing operations, and warehouse. The large facility will have plenty of room to showcase Artaic's custom mosaic-tile installations, too.

Speaking of moving, Wolfers Lighting moved out of its Waltham, Massachusetts, showroom at the end of June and will relocate to a new boutique showroom in Wellesley, Massachusetts, this fall. If you need to shop this summer, don't worry, you can still make purchases at wolfers.com.
